Amy Peterson is a Birmingham-based artist and art teacher known for her impressionistic landscapes, historic interiors, and paintings of downtown Birmingham. She co-chaired "Alabama Then and Now", a bicentennial art exhibit which toured 10 cities from 2018-2019. She is cofounder and president of the Cahaba Homestead Heritage Foundation, a 501(c)3 in Trussville, AL.

Amy graduated from the University of Notre Dame and lived in various places before returning to her native Alabama to raise her family and advance her art career.

Represented by the Beverly McNeil Gallery in Birmingham, her original oil paintings can be found in corporate and private collections across North America.

A wife and mother of three school-aged children and a volunteer with various art programs, Amy witnesses on a daily basis how the arts are gateways to learning, imagination, problem-solving, communication, and mental wellness!
